TOWN DOWN A CHANDELIER.

But Becker Won His Wager that He Could Kick It.

He Was Arrested and Made to Pay $20 for His Acrobatic Fun.

Joseph Becker, a motorman on the Grand street line, was fined $20 by Justice Watson, in the Ewen Street Court, Williamsburg, for breaking a chandelier in the saloon at 43 Lorimer street, conducted by Constantine Hapst.

Becker was in the saloon last night with a number of friends. He boasted of his ability as a high kicker, and one of his friends derided his claimed prowess. An argument ensued, and it was finally decided that Becker should attempt to kick one of the globes in the chandelier. He succeeded in doing so, his friend would have to treat. At this time Hapst was nodding behind the bar, but when a space was cleared for Becker the saloon-keeper awoke and objected.

Becker took a short run and made a kick at the chandelier. Nobody could deny that Becker won the bet. He struck the chandelier with his right foot, but it got entangled with the brass work, and he hung a minute then with a crash, while the globes fell all about the room.

Hapst caught Becker as he was running away and held him until a policeman appeared and took him to the station. The saloon-keeper said in court to-day that the damage done by Becker and his friends would amount to over $100.

BOTH WIVES SUE FANJOY.

Lucy's Marriage Annulled and Cecilia Gets a Divorce.

Mrs. Toque Must Get More Evidence in Her Suit.

It seldom happens that two women seek to be freed from the same man at the same time, and that the suits are tried together, but that is what happened before Justice Clement in the City Court, Brooklyn, this morning.

The defendant is John J. Fanjoy, who is serving a two and one-half years' sentence in Sing Sing Prison for bigamy. The women are his wives, Cecilia and Lucy.

Lucy married Fanjoy on Jan. 3. Cecilia became Mrs. Fanjoy several years ago. Cecilia asked for an absolute divorce, and Lucy wanted her marriage annulled.

During the trial testimony was introduced showing that Lucy had caused Fanjoy's arrest for bigamy, and that he had been convicted by the Court of Sessions and sentenced.

The papers in Cecilia's suit were served by the City Court, and the summons in the other's action was sent to him after he reached Sing Sing.

Fanjoy was not represented by counsel, but a letter written by him was introduced in which he said that both women refused to let the policeman in. He charged the Court would grant them, and he charged the Court would grant them, and he charged the Court would grant them.

William Knapp was the only witness for her. He testified that he was living with her at the time she was married to Fanjoy, and that he saw Toque with a strange woman.

Judge Clement said he would not grant a divorce, but he would grant a judgment that the case be allowed to the plaintiff to put in more evidence.

DRUNK WITH HER CHILDREN.

The Mother Not Yet Sober When Arraigned in Court.

Nellie Roll, thirty-three years old, who claims to live on Tillary street, Brooklyn, but does not know the number, and who was found in a helpless state of intoxication on Park Row at 7 o'clock last night, was not yet sober when arraigned in court this morning. She had with her her three children. They were Eddie, aged ten; Gus, aged seven, and Anthony, aged five. The children had hold of their mother's skirt, and were following her from one side of the walk to the other. Policeman Wagner, of the Oak street station, arrested the mother and sent the children to the City Court.

Mrs. Roll was arraigned in the Tombs Police Court, and the case was adjourned until to-morrow morning to allow the mother to get sober. The case, Mrs. Roll says her husband works in a packing-house somewhere in Front street.

ORGAN TUNER IN THE LOFT.

It May Have Been His Shadow That Was Seen.

Police Still Investigating the Tabernacle Fire.

Detectives attached to the Brooklyn Central Office are to-day at work on clues in support of the theory that the Tabernacle fire was of incendiary origin. The utmost secrecy is being observed, but it was said a statement would be given out late to-day by the Police Commissioner.

A story was given out to-day from an authentic source which may explode the theory of incendiary fire. For several months past, it was stated, it has been the custom to have a man in the organ loft at the Tabernacle during each Sunday morning service. He usually came early, and after tuning the instrument remained to be on hand in case of an accident.

He was an employee of Jardine & Co., the makers of the organ. Until recently he had been the new organ tuner. On the morning of the fire, he was in the organ loft, and he was the first to see the flames. He was the first to see the flames. He was the first to see the flames.

CLUBBED BY A POLICEMAN.

Patrolman James Hinchey Charged with Unjustifiable Assault.

He Severely Beat Thomas Gorman in His Own Home.

Police Capt. Early, of the Bergen street station, called at Brooklyn Headquarters this morning and formally presented charges against Patrolman James Hinchey, for brutally clubbing without cause, Thomas Gorman, twenty-one years old, of 633 Union street.

Hinchey is a probationary policeman. At 1 o'clock this morning Patrolman Hinchey returned to the sidewalk on the steps of his house asleep. The policeman roused the man and found he was intoxicated. He told Gorman if he did not go upstairs he would place him under arrest.

Fennell assisted the drunken man up the stairs, and saw him enter the kitchen door of his apartments. The policeman returned to the sidewalk and met Patrolman Hinchey. While the two officers were talking Gorman staggered downstairs. He challenged the policeman to arrest him.

Gorman's abuse angered Hinchey. He ran up the steps and followed Gorman to his room. Gorman's aunt and sister refused to let the policeman in. Hinchey pushed the women aside and they dashed at Gorman with his club raised above his head. He struck Gorman, inflicting a severe scalp wound, and then joined Policeman Fennell, who was outside.

Hinchey, it is said, was off his post at the time. At 2 o'clock this morning Gorman's aunt and mother called on Capt. Early and told him the story. Early visited Gorman's house and then telephoned for an ambulance. Gorman's aunt and mother called on Capt. Early and told him the story. Thomas Murray, of 231 Prospect street, was placed on trial in the Court of Sessions, Brooklyn, this morning on a charge of assaulting Edna Hamilton, aged eighteen, of Orange, Conn.

The girl left her aunt's home on April 17 to visit her brother in Brooklyn. She got to the city in the afternoon and searched for her brother, but could not find him. Late that night she concluded to go to New York, and started for the Fulton ferry. Two men followed her along Front street. She quickened her steps, but they overtook her and threw her to the sidewalk. The girl screamed, and a watchman came to her assistance. Striking shots in the air. One of the men escaped. TO EXTRACT THE BULLETS.

Doctors Endeavoring to Save Katie Rupp's Life.

A Detective Will Be Sent to Bring Back Altenberger.

Katie Rupp, who was shot and left for dead by Bernhard Altenberger at Snake Hill, N. J., on Sunday, was, according to the latest reports received by Chief of Police Murphy, of Jersey City, resting quietly in Christ Hospital with a chance of recovery.

Chief Murphy said this morning that he had taken steps to have Altenberger extradited from Utica, N. Y., where he was arrested last night. Detective Doyle will go to Utica this afternoon to bring back the would-be murderer.

According to the despatches from Utica Altenberger has confessed that he shot Miss Rupp. The young woman's watch, pocketbook and $9 in cash were found when he was searched by the Utica police. The revolver with which he shot Katie Rupp was also found in his pocket with three of the chambers discharged.

Chief Murphy was much provoked to-day on account of the delay of Chief Haggerty, of the Rome police, in advising him of the finding of the letters to Christine Vetter, of Elizabeth, N. J., which were found in Altenberger's trunk on Monday.

"If," said Chief Murphy, "he had wired me the facts we would have arrested Altenberger in Elizabeth at the ball which he attended with Miss Vetter less than fourteen hours after the shooting of Miss Rupp."

The afternoon Chief Murphy is to place the case before the Grand Jury, and Altenberger will probably be indicted.

SCANDAL IN THIS BRIDGE.

Courts Have Been Appealed To, and There Are Hints of Boodle.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 16.—A scandal has grown out of the awarding of a contract to build a bridge over the Passaic river, near Newark, to the Berlin Bridge Company, of Connecticut, by the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders.

The bids were opened two weeks ago five bridge companies made bids between $22,000 and $30,000. It had been argued that the new bridge should be built for $18,000.

Freeholders J. E. Powell and James Parsons objected to the awarding of the contract to the Berlin Company, but without effect.

Application was made to-day to the Supreme Court at Trenton for a writ of certiorari to nullify the contract. It was charged by the applicant that there was collusion between the bridge company, and it is hinted that Freeholders were bribed.

The Union Bridge Company, which was not an original bidder, has agreed to build the bridge for $18,000. The City Club of New Brunswick, is investigating the whole proceedings. Senators Adams and Charles T. Cowenhoven are its counsel.

Receiver Not Removed.

Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court to-day, refused to remove Henry Behr as receiver for the firm of Behr Bros. & Co. The application for the receiver's removal was made by Roger M. Sherman, on the ground that he was violating his trust by running the business in the interests of the old firm without regard to the claims of the creditors.
